Response to Complaint of [REDACTED] (SEF Chemo Patient [REDACTED]'s Daughter)

I am responding to the letter of complaint emailed by Ms. [REDACTED] on July 10, 2017 relating to the care I have provided to her mother, [REDACTED]. I have attached a letter from Ms. [REDACTED] herself attesting to the good care I have provided to her, and confirming that she herself has no concerns.

Ms. [REDACTED]'s statements quoted below from her complaint, highlight the fact that the complaint is not made in good faith.

"...I have tried researching to disprove and discredit Dr. Khan..."

"He is ... pushing treatments that serve no purpose other than increasing cash flow."

"...patients are pushed in to private health care traps"

Given that Ms. [REDACTED] has never attended her mother's treatment sessions or met or spoken with me, her assertions carry no weight and should be discarded. The College has a duty to weed out malicious and vexatious complaints.

Ms. [REDACTED] has made multiple inaccurate statements:

- "she paid out nearly $100,000 to Dr. Khan's practice"
This is false, payments for SEF chemo are made directly to the Berkeley Institute, and the College is already aware of this fact. It can be confirmed by asking the patient Ms. [REDACTED], if needed.
- "he's operating a cancer clinic without any oncology training"
Ms. [REDACTED] has no knowledge of my medical training. I have internal medicine training (under family medicine) which includes oncology, cardiology, nephrology, respirology, infectious disease etc.
- "benign mass within her pancreas..was not seen as any risk"
This is also false. The College should ask the patient Ms. [REDACTED] for confirmation.
- "All of his tests and treatments originate from his own source..."
Actually none do. I have not discovered any of the therapies we use, and I did not create the tests we use. Ms. [REDACTED] cannot produce any evidence to support her assertion, as none exists.
- I never sent her mother to Mexico or even suggested that she do so. The College can confirm this with Ms. [REDACTED], who will tell you that it was she who researched a facility in Mexico and decided to attend there, with no input from me.
- I have never pushed Ms. [REDACTED] to take any treatments with me, and again, Ms. [REDACTED] can be asked directly about this herself.
- At no time did I "fill (Ms. [REDACTED]'s) head" with conspiracy theories relating to big pharma. Ms. [REDACTED] is a knowledgeable, well-informed, erudite woman who appears to me to be fully capable of forming her own views and opinions, and this, I presume, is why she sought out my care in the first place.

Finally, I believe it is important for the Committee to hear directly from the patient whose care is in issue. To this end, I have excerpted the following comments from Ms. [REDACTED]'s letter to the College which summarize her assessment of her daughter:

"In her letter, my daughter mentions 'concerned family attempting to interject' and 'my family and I have tried researching to disprove and discredit Dr Khan', but not once during the time I was attending treatment at Medicor did [REDACTED] voice any of these concerns to me, or share her concerns with her brother. It greatly pains me to say, that the tone of her letter leaves very little doubt in my mind, that her main concern is not my health, but the level of my bank account, and what will, or will not, be left to bequeath to my children."

"My own attorney Gilles Lemieux, is quite aware of the wide variety of shenanigans [REDACTED] has gotten into over the years. She also approached her foster brother after the death of my husband and said she didn't understand why others were given money from the estate but not her. This was blatantly untrue. No one was bequeathed anything aside from myself."

"The last line of her letter confirms that there has been no ill effect on my health that she can discern, but once again reiterates her concern over my bank account."

"She tends to stir up drama where none is needed. Since reaching puberty she has been very difficult to deal with, and in fact, has caused a lot of discord in our family. She lies, sneaks and cheats to get her own way., regardless of who suffers because of her actions. She is always making unfounded allegations about something or someone." ([REDACTED], September 5, 2017)

So while I am sorry that Ms. [REDACTED] has concerns about the care her mother is receiving, respectfully, her concerns are without merit and unfounded. The College should not be investigating this complaint any further. Ms. [REDACTED] is a capable, sophisticated, and mature adult who has made an informed decision to seek complimentary alternative medical care with me.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Thank you.
