

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: July-10-17 2:28 PM
To: WEBSITE I&R
Subject: "Private" cancer Clinic in Toronto
Categories: Requested info

Good Afternoon,

I am looking for help and resources . For the last year now, my mother has been seeking treatment from a Dr Akbar Khan of Medcore Cancer Clinic in Toronto at 4576 Yonge St for a pancreatic cancer that no other medical professional was able to diagnose.

My mother as notified of a benign mass within her pancreas, that was to be kept an eye on but was not seen as any risk. But Dr Khan and his staff performed an "Oncoblot" test which supposedly not only diagnosed a stage 1 Cancer but also confirmed its location within my mothers body. In the months since, despite concerned family attempting to interject, Dr Khan has filled my mothers head with the "conspiracy of big pharma and the medical communities refusal to "Cure" Cancer. He's sent her videos and information such as the "Documentary" "the truth about Cancer", which from what I can tell has been utterly dis proven. She was pushed to seek "Tonic's" in Tijuana from the widely discredited "Hoxsey" clinic . She's paid out nearly $100,000 to Dr Khan's practice over the last year for various blood tests, Side effect Free Chemo treatments, Hyper therapy, plus the cost of flights and accommodations for these treatments, and has recently taken out a loan for an additional $35,000 to finish her "treatments" with Dr Khan, but he's already telling her he will have her coming several times a year for follow ups and additional testing after she's "cured".

Through all this, my family and I have tried researching to disprove and discredit Dr Khan, as all of his tests and treatments sources and information originate from his own cites, or those of Dr. Kenneth Matsumura, who seems to be a partner of Dr Khan's with a practice mirroring Dr Khan's in the US. So my question to you is, how is an individual practicing in this fashion maintain a medical license? He is operating a cancer clinic without any Oncology training, and pushing treatments that serve no purpose other than increasing cash flow. Is there no governing board to stop and regulate these practices , or is it simply buyer beware when patients are pushed into private health care traps?

Any and all information you can offer would be greatly appreciated. We're battling against the image of a "trusted medical professional" and it's a losing battle. So far with regards to my mothers funds, but as the treatments are piled onto an aging woman, it may soon jeopardize her health.

Regards,

[REDACTED]